You have run all your sentences together here Finn and your ideas are not clear to your audience as you have missed keywords, introductions and punctuation (also you have only named four parts - not five)>
The five parts are: the Firebolt, which shows the Beyblade's Bit-Beast (a bit-beast is the image of the Beyblade); the Energy Ring, which makes the Beyblades fit into the launcher; the Fusion Wheel, which is the part of the Beyblade that hits the point (without this the Beyblade would be unbalanced); and finally, the Spin Track.

The heavy hard system is the fist vision of beyblade. The Beyblades you see today are the 'Hybrid system'. The heavy hard system Only have four pieces to the Beyblade, it has no energy ring so that it can only spin using the fusion wheel. The reason they call it the heavy hard system is because the fusion wheel is supper big, heavy and really hard. The called the second vision of Beyblade the hybrid system because the heavy hard system can't be taken apart, three for the Beyblades bit's can't be changed to crate a hybrid Beyblade!
